

CPHP Affiliated Faculty Application

Affiliate faculty appointments may be considered for individuals who, by virtue of their expertise, are deemed capable of making a significant contribution to a CPHP program. Such contribution may involve collaboration on grants, giving occasional lectures or acting as preceptor to students during field work, or practicum. Affiliate faculty appointments may be made available to faculty who hold primary appointments in departments or Centers of Pitt Public Health or other schools of the university, or to persons who hold university and academic professional positions in the university.
